An ideal event to Involve your employees

Involve every one around the event in order to create a memorable team building experience.

Value your brand

by associating it with an event of international stature, both popular and prestigious.

Strengthen cohesion

within your teams, allowing them to compete together during the competition.

Every 4 years, the clubs world cup is the most watched sports event by fans of football and TV channels from around the world. Organize a prediction contest on this competition with PronoContest, take part in the festivities by associating your brand with the positive values of sport and conviviality.

Course of the game

Throughout the duration of the contest

You have a secure and customizable space dedicated exclusively to members of your organization, on which you can connect.

All over the competition

Your employees predict the score and the result of the matches as well as the winning teams of the tournament to collect points.

During matches

The participants win places in the general classification according to their results. They comment on the results using the thread provided for this purpose.

At the end of the contest

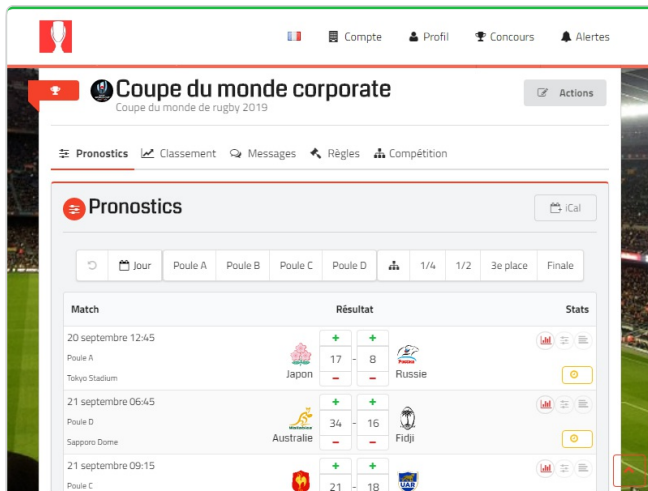

The winners are automatically selected by the application and the best tipsters win the prizes from among those you have proposed.

Review of the previous cups

“ Since 2018, hundreds of companies across the UK and Europe trusted us to organize their corporate predictions contest. Wherever the game was set up, enthusiasm and friendliness increased within the teams during and after the competition. ”
